3 There seems to be some reasons for raising the age limit to something more than 25 in the cases of appointments requiring technical knowledge. As in these Schools it may be possible to have ordinary "language" teachers — in whose case the age limit need not be relaxed — it will be necessary to limit the Concession to teachers of technical subjects alone and not to all teachers.

4 It is however a matter for consideration if in all these cases the age limit shd be raised to 40. The object of fixing an age limit for entry into Govt service is that the Govt should be able to depend on a reasonable period of effective service before the Officer becomes too old and gets pension - It and raising the age limit to 40 would leave a very small period of effective Service - In the British Service Regulations under the article Corresponding to article 34 of ours the. ~~maximum~~ highest ~~limit~~ age limit prescribed in any case is thirty five in the case of Vakils in Madras appointed to Judicial offices in the Provincial Service and in other cases thirty years. It would therefore seem to be better to fix the maximum age limit in these cases that-
